For Obama and Family, a Personal Transition

By Nick Bilynsky

Life for the newly chosen president, Barack Obama, and his family has changed forever. Even constraints and the new security does not compare to the new bubble that has engulfed him in the 10 days since the election. Although Obama is now serving the most powerful office on Earth, there are now strict limits in which he has to abide and there are many issues that he has to face. The biggest issue is the war in Iraq. We don't know what to expect from Obama when he is facing this crisis, but we can assume that he will put forth his best effort to get our troops out of Iraq as soon as possible.

Another major issue is the economy in the United States. Our economy has a high possibility that it can crash and we would re-live the Great Depression. Like I said, we don't know what to expect from him. Hopefully, Obama will get us out of this mess.

Lung Cancer Research Alliance Releases Annual Report on Lung Cancer

By Nick Bilynsky

For the fourth year, the Lung Cancer Alliance (LCA) marked the start of the "Lung Cancer Awareness Month" with the release of the "Report Card on Lung Cancer," a national assessment of progress being created for the fight against Lung Cancer. For 2008, LCA noticed slight improvements, but failing grades continue to commence. The 2008 Report Card on Lung Cancer grades on seven categories to evaluate progress in the efforts made to exterminate this disease. The Report Card noted slight improvements in federal research funding and advances in treatment and diagnostic options, including clinical trials. But overall, funding for public health research and early disease intervention remain feeble and translating new discoveries to patient treatment faces daunting challenges. The 2008 Report Card on Lung Cancer is widely distributed among public policy leaders, medical professionals and health care associations are working to improve outcomes for lung cancer.

Heavenly Sword By: Zain Asif

Once there was a king named Bohan who wanted a peaceful country. When his army came to the free land, the Yens were ready to fight. The army was greatly outnumbering the Yens. Then Bohan's army slaughtered them. After the battle a heavenly warrior came and destroyed Bohan's army. Then he was gone and all that was left was his sword.

Three years later, a girl was born in the Yen's fortress and grew up to be a skilled warrior. The girl's name was Narico. She was given the Heavenly sword from her father Shen to protect the sword from Bohan. Bohan discovered the sword was protected by Narico and attacked the Yens. Narico escaped and left under her father's orders and then she ran to seek a haven from Bohan. She was finally cornered by Bohan's army and Bohan himself, and noticed her father was in chains. Narico had drawn the heavenly sword. She had broken the seal and unleashed its full power. She jumped down from the bridge and right behind her was her best crazy friend Kai. Narico woke up and was captured by Bohan and the Heavenly Sword was lost to evil. Narico was captured and had no hope of getting the sword back until Kai came and Narico asked if she could retrieve the sword from Bohan's armory. Kai got the sword but Narico was in Bohan's coliseum. She was just about to battle Roach, Bohan's son. Kai gave the heavenly sword to Narico and Narico beat Roach. Then they escaped. Soon a fox demon came and killed Kai. Narico got revenge and killed the flying fox and returned to the Yen's fortress. Then Bohan's army attacked and then Narico went to stop him. She went with the surviving Yens and then they lost. Narico had to retreat but then the heavenly sword killed Narico by the curse mark. Narico was then returned to life. With the heavenly warrior's power, she obliterated Bohan's army. Then Bohan himself got the power of the underworld and battled Narico. BAM! Narico won, but she gave her power to Kai's dead body and revived her. Narico finally died, and the heavenly sword was returned to heaven.

Living on Europa

Chapters 1 & 2

By: Colette

Chapter 1

The Beginning

It was a lonely night when the Europa comet 260 launched. There were 100 men, 100 women, 50 children, and 50 babies. The plan of the mission was to save the human race from global warming which was burning up the planet. One of the people aboard was Cozette Yule, an energetic and fun 10-year old girl. When her parents were assigned, she was assigned to the nice Rebecca Hinder and her father was James Nodenson, a nice and handy father. She also had a baby brother called Fredrick. The family landed on Europa and began life.

Later on the day of arrival, the mayor called a meeting. At the meeting, he said he would guard the box that held the instructions to find the instructions that would get later generations out of there. The box would open on a time lock that would open when ready.

Chapter 2

200 Years Later

It was 200 years since Cozette and Fredrick arrived. There were new people, new buildings, and new technology. The great granddaughter of Cozette was now in Europa. Her name was Saturn Yule. Saturn was a tall girl with long shiny brown hair. Saturn liked to run. She was named after a planet that was seen in the sky.

Saturn lived on Base Miracle. It was named because of a smallpox illness that had flown around the last base and wiped out most of the town. They had been forced to abandon the base, where to this day, smallpox is still in the air. Saturn had been lucky. She had escaped the smallpox illness before it had turned on her. Her father and little brother, John, had not been so lucky. Her mother had had smallpox but lived through the ordeal. They were living in a small apartment two stories tall. Her neighbor, Heidi Julios, was her best friend. They did everything together. They had gotten so close when their mothers had shared a room in the hospital when they got smallpox. They had been forbidden to see anyone with it so they had stayed at each other's houses and cooked for themselves. They had grown together like sisters. Saturn was running around her room pulling things out of their drawers. She was going camping at Crater 223 with Heidi. She couldn't wait.
